

FALL OF KIROVOGRAD NEAR

Capture Of City By Reds Will Trap Large German Army

Fifth Army Is Pushing Ahead From San Vittore

Enemy Routed From San Vittore In Bitter Street Fighting

U. S. TROOPS MOVE TOWARD CASSINO

By JAMES L. KILGallen (I.N.S. Staff Correspondent)

ALGIERS, Jan. 8.—American infantrymen of the Fifth Army cleared the enemy out of San Vittore in bitter street fighting and continued their advance today, engaging in more fierce hand-to-hand combat in a village north of the fallen town.

Allied headquarters, confirming the capture of San Vittore, said the Americans continued their advance toward strategic Cassino. The tanks drove north of the former in 1,000 yards and invaded a village of Giusto.

Seize 4,000 Foot Height

The fifth Army advanced as much as a mile in some sectors of their ten-mile offensive front, capturing several important positions. One of the gains made by the Americans was the seizure of another 4,000-foot height which had barred their way toward the Cassino gateway to Rome.

San Vittore, standing some 600 feet above sea level, is just south of a narrow pass to Cassino. It was considered the last important German stronghold barring the way to Cassino.

On the Adriatic end of the line, the British Eighth Army engaged in sharp clashes with the enemy. The Britons were operating under conditions of bitter cold, and amid snowdrifts. However, their patrols were active.

Though San Vittore had been entered by the Americans several days ago the Yanks found the enemy stubborn in its determination to hold the town. The last three pockets of desperate Nazi resistance presented the Allies with a difficult task as they sought to eliminate these remnants.

Enemy Battles Fiercely

As the weather continued cold the Fifth Army offensive bit steadily into the German defense ring below Cassino. The enemy was fiercely striving to prevent extension of the rupture which American troops began through the capture of San Vittore, which fell after two weeks of the most intense fighting.

The Germans quickly retreated.

Organization is being perfected in New Castle and Lawrence county for the coming war bond campaign, which is to be launched on January 18. Lawrence county has a large quota for the drive, and it will require the wholehearted support of every person in the county to put it over. No matter how many bonds you have already bought, this campaign must get support to the limit of your ability.

New Castle and Lawrence county so far have escaped the heavy snows of the winter, that have descended on many other parts of the state. Snowfall of as much as nine inches was reported east of the county in other sections of the state this week, and yesterday a heavy snow was reported north of the county in the lake area.

Wilson Aviation Trains More Than Thousand Pilots

Naval Cadets Attend West minster Ground School Have Flight Training Here

Wilson Aviation school, local government-approved contract flight school, with the cooperation of the navy, Westminster college flight instructors and mechanics, is one whose contribution to the war effort is notable.

During the past five years, nearly all airport operators whose operations were approved as government flight schools, have been engaged in training combat pilots who are fighting on all fronts today. In conjunction with Westminster college where cadets receive ground school training, approximately 1150 fighter pilots have received elementary and intermediate flight training at the local field.

During the past year all of the trainees assigned to this school have been enlisted Naval aviation cadets placed here for elementary flight training in the navy. They live at Westminster college under military discipline.

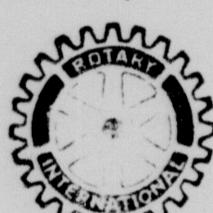

Mr. and Mrs. Findley C. Wilson, operators of the War Training Service program at New Castle airport are proud of the fact that in thousands of hours of training there have been no fatalities and no serious injury to any cadet.

Credit for this enviable record, they say, belongs to an able staff of flight instructors and mechanics most of whom are in the enlisted reserve and who have been retained in inactive status by War Training Service.

THE BOMBING PATTERN

ALLIED AIR COMMANDS in England, taking stock of results of the first real bombing campaign against Germany, are able to draw conclusions from experiences of the last 10 months. The actual campaign got under way last March.

Out of these experiments came the plan for day and night bombing, jobs which were divided between American and English forces and which have been found to be highly successful. Another and still more important conclusion was the need for mass attacks, in contrast to the previous plan of trying to destroy a single target.

If Germany's war effort was to be severely hampered, it was determined that not only factories must be destroyed but also homes of the workers, their means of transportation, the public utilities that serve them and the stores that supply them with food. Results at Hamburg proved the wisdom of this plan.

Germany's 21 principal cities have been marked for destruction. Of these, 10 are now eliminated so far as war production is concerned. Bombing of the remainder will continue until time for actual invasion draws near.

Then the Allies will switch all their efforts to attacks against airfields and supply routes in invasion territory in a campaign which promises to be so stupendous as to amaze a world already accustomed to destruction from the air.

WINNERS AND LOSERS

How right the strategy of a winning military power appears to be and how wrong that of a losing power. All things seem to be possible to an advancing army and a retreating army is always apparently in a hopeless situation.

That is the situation on the eastern front of the European conflict today. Russian forces are advancing despite every German counter-attack and are widely regarded as being in a position to deal Germany a knock-out blow.

The reverse was true in 1940 and 1941 when Germany was in a winning phase. No matter what Hitler undertook, he was conceded success at the outset. When he swept through France in the early summer of 1940, most onlookers who had hoped for a successful stand against him gave up. If he had started across the Channel shortly thereafter, not many persons would have predicted failure for the undertaking.

His Balkan campaign was an admitted triumph before he got well under way. And when Hitler invaded Russia in June, 1941, with the boast he would be in Moscow in six weeks, grave fears were freely expressed that he was right. Only the most optimistic had confidence that the British would turn Rommel back in Egypt.

Now Germany has slumped rapidly into the role of a consistent loser. Russia is triumphant in every contest. There is a wide belief that the total collapse of Germany is imminent.

This may be premature optimism. The Red army is using the same tactics that Hitler employed in his advance into Russia. It is possible the Nazi command is adopting Russia's defensive strategy of retreating without demoralization, leaving the issue to be decided by the Allied second front. That is what many top ranking Allied military strategists see.

RECONVERSION PERIOD

Talk about the reconversion period is no longer discouraged for fear that it might be distracting to the war effort. As confidence in the ultimate outcome grows, it is seen that preparing for peace can give firmer purpose to the nation's determination for a decisive, no less than a speedy, victory.

So war and postwar problems are being considered together, with emphasis on responsibility of government for adopting policies that will insure uniform procedures and remove many of the existing uncertainties such as surround termination of contracts, disposal of government surpluses and similar undertakings. A step in that direction was taken when the Office of War Mobilization created a special bureau to reshape the war effort in the light of changing conditions and to guide the orderly changeover to peacetime production.

The choice of Bernard M. Baruch to head that unit has met with general commendation. But it is a question whether the setup should not be improved by strengthening the bureau's status and affording wider opportunity for Mr. Baruch to put his acknowledged abilities as well as his experiences as chairman of World War I Industries Board to more effective service. The need is to make this an overall agency to supervise home-front demobilization in accordance with American principles.

Agreement on this point was not reached at the recent conference of members of the Senate committee on postwar planning with Mr. Baruch and Director Byrnes of the OWM. But that the conference was held was of no small significance. Moreover, the discussion indicated a realization that it would be folly to expect the transition to be made successfully without the fullest cooperation between government and business, and that it was up to Congress and the administration to insure such cooperation.

It is a stupendous problem involving many and far-reaching adjustments. But, to quote Mr. Baruch, it is possible "to pass from a war status back to a peace status with a minimum of the prostrating economic aftermath that has hitherto been the invariable experience of every ex-belligerent in a great war"—provided there is a return to American principles.

UNCLE SAM'S NEW WEAPONS

In the realm of so-called secret weapons recent announcements disclose that this nation has not been idle.

The newest addition to the long list of American planes, already the most imposing in the world, is the Helldiver. Designed for use from carriers, this new member of the Navy family made its debut against the Japs in the Southwest Pacific, where it has demonstrated it gives the Navy the speed and range needed for a knockout punch. Capable of landing on the smallest carrier, with ample power, this latest addition to Uncle Sam's air force has proven it will carry a greater bomb load, farther and faster than any similar ship that an enemy nation might have in two years, Navy spokesmen say.

Anyway, we can scratch Berlin off our post-war seeing-Europe list.

The more we read about the Berlin bombings the more we realize the only smart Nazi was Rudolf Hess.

The story of the Okies and the tenant farmers of this country is, of course, a sad story, because these Okies and tenant farmers almost without exception are not good farmers. They do not know the game.

The parking meters seem to be a very good investment.

And the best slogan this country can adopt is "Win the War."

"Now that I have a sheep and a cow," said Franklin, "everybody bids me good morning." How history repeats.

Week Provides Record Aerial Assaults Of War

LONDON, Jan. 8.—(INS)—American and British air forces were disclosed today to have made the first week of 1944 the most intense seven-day period of aerial assault since the start of the war.

Flying 8,000 sorties during the first seven days of the new year, the authoritative Press Association said, the U. S. and British airmen blasted Hitler's vaunted European fortress from the Atlantic to the eastern Baltic, and from the English channel to the western Mediterranean.

Thousands of tons of bombs were unleashed by the vast aerial armadas that included planes of every type, from single-motor fighters to huge four-motored bombers.

The assaults included new blows at bomb-scarred Berlin, much of which is in ruins from the series of giant onslaughts that began last November, and have continued steadily since that time.

Mayor Requests Midnight Closing

Mayor John F. Haven today stated he proposed to follow the policy of the former mayor, Charles B. Mayne in regard to the closing hour of places selling liquor. During the administration of Mayor Mayne practically all such places closed at midnight, because of his request.

Trouble arose in one local beverage place at 1:30 this morning and Mayor Haven said he intends to summon the proprietor to his office to determine the proprietor's attitude toward his request that midnight be the closing hour.

Mayor Haven said that following a study of police statistics he had come to the conclusion that the midnight closing time had saved police considerable trouble.

He said that therefore he was requesting such places to close at midnight.

BERLIN SHOWS REAL CONCERN

LONDON, Jan. 8.—(INS)—Acute concern over the giant Soviet offensive was reflected in Berlin today by a broadcast quoting Nazi military leaders as saying that the European war would be decided on the eastern (Russian) front.

The broadcast by the German overseas radio, reflecting the jittery state of nerves among military experts in Adolf Hitler's Reich, declared the war's outcome would be determined in the east, "not by the allied bombing offensive, the campaign in Italy or the coming invasion from the west."

FEAR FIVE FLIERS KILLED IN CRASH BULLETIN

It is also understood that Admiral Ross T. McIntire, the president's physician, is undecided whether he will permit the president to go before congress in person in view of his convalescence from influenza.

Railroad Labor Demands End Of Wage Freeze Plans

Claims Government Shown As Unable To Hold Down Cost Of Living

By PHILLIPS J. PECK
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Railroad labor demanded today that the government drop all plans for a wage "freeze" in view of its "demonstrated inability" to hold down the cost of living.

Opposition to such a "freeze" constituted the major obstacle to settlement of the dispute of the three operating rail brotherhoods—conductors, switchmen and firemen—who thus far have rejected presidential arbitration.

Chiefs of the 15 non-operating unions also were concerned about the "freeze," although their main worry was whether the wage board reconvened by President Roosevelt would reopen their entire pay dispute or confine itself to consideration of their claims for overtime.

It was understood that the executive order reassembling the three-man panel gave the board complete authority to proceed as it sees fit. The first hearing will be held Monday at 10 a.m. with both the carriers and the non-operating brotherhood officials invited to attend.

Few new developments on the prolonged rail labor controversy appeared likely over the weekend. The stalemate has now lasted 11 days with the termination of Army control of the railroads, not yet in sight.

A subcommittee of nine officials has been selected by the three operating brotherhoods to prepare a report on their wage situation.

FAST NEW MOTOR
PITTSBURGH.—(INS)—A motor that revolves at the rate of 1,000 times a second—yes, a second—has been designed and built by Robert M. Baker of the Westinghouse Research Laboratories. The motor's purpose is to speed production of airplane engines and other precision-built war equipment, driving high-speed grinders that put a mirror-like finish on hard-to-reach internal surfaces of plane and tank engines.

Change System For Examination Of Drafted Men

New Regulations Are Issued
For Pre-Induction Physical Examinations

HARRISBURG, Jan. 8—(INS)—State Selective Service headquarters asserted today that the new regulations calling for pre-induction physical examinations after February 1 are in effect a return to the old "Pennsylvania plan" of drafting men for the armed forces.

"The plan is similar to the Pennsylvania plan in use about a year ago," headquarters said. Under the revised regulations, registrants will receive physical examination three weeks or more before they are called to report for induction. The waiting period, however, may be as long as three months.

Under the present plan, primary examinations are given by local boards after which the registrants are called for induction and, if accepted for military service, receive a three-week furlough in the army and a one-week leave in the navy before reporting for active duty.

While the changes announced by National Selective Service headquarters are aimed at creating reserve pools of physically-fit men from which to fill future calls, the ultimate prolonged waiting period between physical examinations and inductions was believed to be a boon for registrants, especially fathers who are being drafted in increasing numbers.

Registrants currently classified 1-A cannot be sure they will be inducted until they take their final physical examinations. However, beginning next month, primary blood tests by local boards will be abandoned except where registrants claim ineligibility for service. Registrants will instead be called for pre-induction physical examination at induction centers and given their classifications.

Those found eligible for service will be placed in a pool by local boards. The boards will then call them as they are needed, provided three weeks have elapsed since their examinations. Thus, registrants will be in a position to know whether to wind up their civilian affairs prior to their inductions.

It was pointed out that boards will draw men from the pools by order numbers. Men called up by their boards during January will be processed according to the old system.

Duff Considers G.O.P. Requests To Run For Senate

By JOHN PAGET
(U. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

HARRISBURG, Jan. 8—Republican organization support was assured Attorney General James H. Duff today if he acceded to the demands of leaders attempting to replace James J. Davis in the U. S. Senate.

"I have been asked by leaders to run for the senate post but I have not made a decision," Duff said. "I may reach a conclusion next week."

There were indications, however, that the 61-year-old cabinet officer would announce his acceptance following a meeting of the Republican National Committee at Chicago next week.

Lieut. Gov. John Bell, Jr., mentioned in some circles as a possible candidate, asked Duff if he intended to enter the contest and there have been indications since the meeting that Bell would not throw his hat in the ring for the primary election April 25.

Capt. Donald E. Hubbard, Officer in Charge of Recruiting for the U. S. Marine Corps Women's Reserve in the Pittsburgh district, informed Sgt. H. W. Agreto, local Marine Corps recruiter, that vacancies exist in the commissioned personnel which the Marine Corps is desirous of filling.

"Although officers for the Women's Reserve of the Marine Corps are in the main chosen from the enlisted personnel," Capt. Hubbard states, "there do exist at present certain vacancies in the commissioned personnel that may be filled by applicants from civilian status. This opportunity is limited to women whose education and civilian experience gives them outstanding qualifications."

Women from the local district who are interested may secure further information from Sgt. Agreto at the Marine Corps Recruiting Office, U. S. Post Office Building.

Ex-Yankee Outfielder Blasts Five Under Par; Nelson Second With 68

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 8.—(INS)—Blasting out a sizzling 32-34-66 five under par, Sammy Byrd, former New York Yankee ball player today held the lead in the first round of the $12,000 Los Angeles Open golf championship.

Laying three birdsies on the front side and a like number on the back Byrd's redhot performance gave him a two-stroke edge on the heavy favorite, Byron Nelson, of Toledo who carried a 33-35-68 to take up second place.

Four in Third

Bracketed in third place was a quartet of par-busters who came home with 69's. They were Jug McSpaden of Philadelphia, Jimmy Hines of New York, Willie Hunter of nearby Riviera Country club and Olin Dutra, home pro of the Wilshire Country club.

Par was slaughtered wholesale as exactly 17 players bettered the regulation figure. It was the most par-blasting group to participate in the rich Los Angeles event since its inauguration back in 1926.

Two hole-in-one shots were marked in the record books. Amateur Dave McEvoy of Inglewood Cal. and Ernie Martin, Hawthorne Cal. pro, each capped an eagle on the "unlucky" 120-yard No. 13 hole by a 32-15 score.

A surprisingly large opening day crowd of 5,100 spectators watched Byrd grab a comfortable hold on the $4,375 first prize purse with his 66

Georgia Shoeshine Boy Earns Split Decision; 14,876 Pay $43,161 To See Fight

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—(INS)—Beau Jack, the Georgia shoeshine boy who made a fortune by learning to swing feather instead of polishing it, was still top man in the New York Boxcar Commission's lightweight class today after disposing of Lulu Costantino, the East Side willow in the pic, over the 10-round route last night.

Jack won a split decision mainly on his stalking, bull-like aggressiveness, which overshadowed the clever leaping and dancing of the comparatively frail Costantino. Little Lulu outclassed the wild-swinging New York champion in the first five rounds, but Jack proved his superiority in the heated exchanges that marked the closing sessions.

The contest, a one-title heavyweight affair, drew 14,876 fans who shelled out $43,161. The defeat virtually eliminated the young East Side New Yorker from the title picture. Jack was favored with odds ranging as high as three and four to one in pre-fight bets.

'Jumping Joe' Dugan Hurt; Hit By Auto

BOSTON, Jan. 8.—(INS)—Joseph A. "Jumping Joe" Dugan of Allston, one of the greatest third basemen of all time and for several years a member of the New York Yankees, was in City hospital today with a brain concussion and scalp lacerations.

The 50-year-old ex-ballplayer who played with the Boston Red Sox and the Athletics before going to New York, was struck last night by an automobile as he was crossing a Back Bay street.

Catalina Flying Boats Sink Jap Cruiser In Pacific

By PETER HEMERY

WITH A PATROL CATALINA SQUADRON IN NEW GUINEA, Jan. 6.—(Delayed)—Big Catalina flying boats, already credited with sinking thousands of tons of enemy shipping in this theater, today added a cruiser and probably a destroyer to their list of recent victims.

An official tabulation credits the cruiser to a plane commanded by Lieut. (jg) Rudolph (Pappy) Lloyd of Pensacola, Fla. The destroyed was listed as a probable score by the crew of a second Catalina under Lieut. (jg) Bob Kunkel of Peru, Ind.

Lloyd, with only a few hours to go to his 5,000-hour mark in elapsed flying time sighted the enemy cruiser in Kavieng's outer harbor just 10 days after missing another cruiser but bagging an 8,000-ton merchantman during an attack on a Japanese convoy.

Sending his Catalinas down than a curtain of ack-ack fire, he passed over the ship so low that crew members saw the Japanese gunners in the flash of their heavy weapons.

FALL DOWN STAIRS

Mrs. Jas. Glover met with a very painful and serious accident when she fell down stairs this week. Mrs. Glover is fortunate in not breaking any bones, but she suffered bumps over her body and has a very badly injured chin.

Mrs. Bob Allen fell down stairs and was seriously injured. She was rushed to Jameson hospital and no bones were broken and she was returned to her home on Beaver street.

It was believed that no casualties were suffered aboard the merchantman. A navy board of inquiry is investigating the collision, but a Fourth Naval District spokesman said no public announcement of the results of the investigation would be made for several days.

The survivors included:

John Lastick, 22, Greensboro, Pa., and James Belford, 18, Clymer, Pa.

Speculate On Sea Command Changes Soon

By JOSEPH A. BORS
(L. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Return of Admiral William F. Halsey, Jr., to the United States revived speculation in naval circles today over possible changes in Pacific sea commands in which the fighting officer would be given a new post.

Rumors that Halsey might get a new assignment cropped up again following the disclosure that he was in Los Angeles on leave from his duties as commander of Allied forces in the South Pacific.

Secretary of the Navy Knox has declined repeatedly to discuss with reporters possible shifts of command, but he has not denied flatly that such changes were being considered.

Over 400 Alarms Of Fire Answered

City Firemen Travel Over 3,000 Miles Answering Alarms Last Year

City firemen answered 434 fire alarms during the year 1943. Fire Chief James E. Thomas stated today. Of this number, 21 were for fires outside the city, and 45 were false alarms.

In responding to these calls, a total of 3,222 miles was covered by the apparatus answering, and 40,000 feet of 2½ inch hose, and 30,350 feet of Booster Hose were laid to the fires, in addition to 950 feet of 1½ inch hose, and 550 feet of one-inch hose.

Besides this, in fighting special fires, 30 gallons of foamite were used, 10 gallons of Phomade, 18 gallons of soda-acid from extinguishers, three tanks of lux extinguisher, and one tank of Dutch Gas. The Indian Fire extinguishers, portable tanks carried on the backs of the firemen, were used 16 times. The department used 1,063 gallons of gasoline and 81 quarts of oil.

YOUR FEDERAL INCOME TAX

NO. 5
HEAD OF FAMILY EXEMPTION
A single person, or a married person not living with wife or husband, is entitled to a personal exemption for income tax purposes (but not for victory tax) of $1,200 for the year if he qualified as a "head of family" during 1943.

The term "head of family" should not be confused with the ordinary meaning of the phrase, since the fathers and mothers who are ordinarily designated by the phrase usually determine their income tax exemptions as "married persons"—who are also entitled to $1,200 exemption.

Actually, for tax purposes the phrase "head of family" means others—outside of husbands and wives living together—who meet the test of the following definition:

"A head of a family is an individual who actually supports and maintains in one household one or more individuals who are closely connected with him by blood relationship, relationship by marriage, or by adoption, and whose right to exercise family control and provide for those dependent individuals is based upon some moral or legal obligation."

Examples of the types of persons who can qualify under this definition are a widow or widower who maintains a home for a dependent child; a son who supports and maintains a household for a dependent father or mother.

It is important to note however that there are four tests that must be met to qualify a taxpayer as a "head of family."

Test No. 1.—The dependent must be maintained by the taxpayer, except in a few special circumstances, in one household; in other words, under the same roof. However, if the father is absent temporarily on business, or the child is away during a school period or on a visit, the test can still be met if a common home is maintained. Also, if because of actual necessity, a parent is obliged to maintain his dependent children with relatives or in a boarding the parent lives elsewhere the exemption may still be claimed.

Test No. 2.—The taxpayer and the dependents must be closely related by blood, marriage or adoption. Besides legal adoption cases, the only recognized relationships for this test are parents (including in-laws), grandparents, brothers and sisters (including half-, step- and in-laws), uncles and aunts, nephews and nieces. This test rules out unrelated guardians and distant relatives such as cousins.

Test No. 3.—The taxpayer must exercise family control over the dependents. This test will rule out many in-laws. Also it will rule out children who are in the armed services, since they are under the exclusive control of the Government.

Test No. 4.—The taxpayer's right to exercise family control and to care for his dependents must be based on some moral or legal right. Many in-laws are again disqualified by this test as well as some step brothers and sisters, depending, of course, on the circumstances of each individual case. This test may also disqualify some persons who have taken unrelated children into their homes but have not legally adopted them.

Didn't Need To Have Draft Card

DENVER, Jan. 8.—(INS)—Denver police held Miss Jacqueline Moret for questioning concerning allegedly illegal liquor sales, but they almost didn't get around to asking any questions about liquor.

When Detectives Arthur Roach and Howard Payram opened the case, they first questioned Jack Starr as to his reason for not carrying a Selective Service registration card.

"No, I don't carry a draft card," they were told by Starr. "I don't need one. But I think I had better explain down at headquarters."

At headquarters, Starr asked to see the police matron, who confirmed shortly afterward that Starr did not need a draft card, since Jack Starr really was Jacqueline Moret. Miss Moret said she had been masquerading as a man throughout her 47 years of life.

"I wore overalls from the time I could walk and everyone always called me Jack," she said. "My father always told me he had wanted a son, so he raised me as a boy. I've always represented myself to be a man and no one ever questioned me—until now. I've worked in shipyards, driven trucks and been a longshoreman. But I'm a better bartender."

Wrong Impression Says Cleveland Girl

CLEVELAND, Jan. 8.—(INS)—It's not that Lamour "is wrong." It's just that she was cited as an example because she was the "first one to pop into my mind," Zelma Monahan said yesterday.

Miss Monahan, who received top billing in an added attraction played for the benefit of the Cleveland Federation of Labor, asserted that celebrities touring war plants were one of the diversions, other than strikes, which slowed down war production.

Miss Lamour countered with a staunch announcement that she would continue to go on her plant tours despite the suggestion that such factory roles be rationed.

Regretful that an alleged wrong impression had been made, Miss Monahan said:

"I believe Miss Lamour's motives are sincere, and I resent stories creating the impression that I was attacking her."

HERMIT SISTERS DIE

RICHMOND, N. Y.—(INS)—Ellen Seaver, 83, and her sister Dolly, 78, who lived in an old frame house in Richmond, Staten Island, were found dead by a neighbor following a cold wave. The elderly women, arms entwined, were believed to have frozen to death. There was no coal or firewood in the house. The women had lived like hermits for a number of years.

TRIBUTE TO THE UNCONQUERABLES

Sponsored by The Saturday Evening Post and The New Castle Store

Painted by Robert Riggs

MONDAY IS GREEK DAY

Monday, New Castle pays tribute to the fighting spirit of Greece—to the astounding fortitude and unflinching courage of a magnificent nation—a people who have continued unconquerable through the gall of defeat, the horror of pillage, and the nightmare of untold suffering.

KEEP BACKING THE ATTACK! With these fighting words the U. S. Treasury Department opens The Fourth War Loan on January 18th. As a fitting prelude, leading up to and into this great victory effort, The New Castle Store is proud to present Tribute to the Unconquerables—a nationwide War Bond drive, co-sponsored by The Saturday Evening Post, and beginning January 10th.

This coast-to-coast drive is inspired by Poet Joseph Auslander's magnificent Open Letters to the Unconquerables which millions have recently read in The Saturday Evening Post.

Auslander's Letters have brought home to the people of this nation the vivid, stark picture of the sacrifice made by tens of millions in the ravaged, war-torn lands. And the purpose of this drive, and The Fourth War Loan, is to impress our people with the great need for sacrifice now—to keep the attack rolling—to release these nations to fight—to speed victory for all.
